10. Aims of the programme

The programme aims to enable students to develop critical thinking skills, reflective practice and disciplined enquiry to postgraduate level and provide students with a thorough theoretical grounding in the psychometric assessment of cognitive processes that underlie literacy-related difficulties. It is designed to produce enlightened, reflective practitioners who have the specialist subject knowledge necessary to competently assess, plan and conduct intervention programmes for learners with literacy-related difficulties. It aims to develop students' ability to deal systematically with complex educational issues and to communicate their specialist knowledge to specialist and non-specialist audiences in a range of settings

11. Programme outcomes*

A. Knowledge and understanding

On completion of this programme the successful student will have knowledge and understanding of:

1. A range of research perspectives and factors that can affect literacy acquisition and cognitive processing.
2. The theoretical underpinnings of structured, sequential, cumulative, multisensory literacy tuition.
3. The principles and practice of the psychometric assessment process.
4. Statistical and qualitative analysis and how these can be employed to appraise learner performance on a range of assessment tests.

Teaching/learning methods

Students gain knowledge and understanding through:

- guided study utilising the online learning platform, webinars, online discussion forums, online tutor support
- critical analysis of current research
- the application of new theoretical and professional knowledge to their practice.

Assessment Methods

Students' knowledge and understanding is assessed by:

- written coursework comprising critical analysis, applied practice analysis and reflective analysis.

B. Skills

On completion of this programme the successful student will be able to:

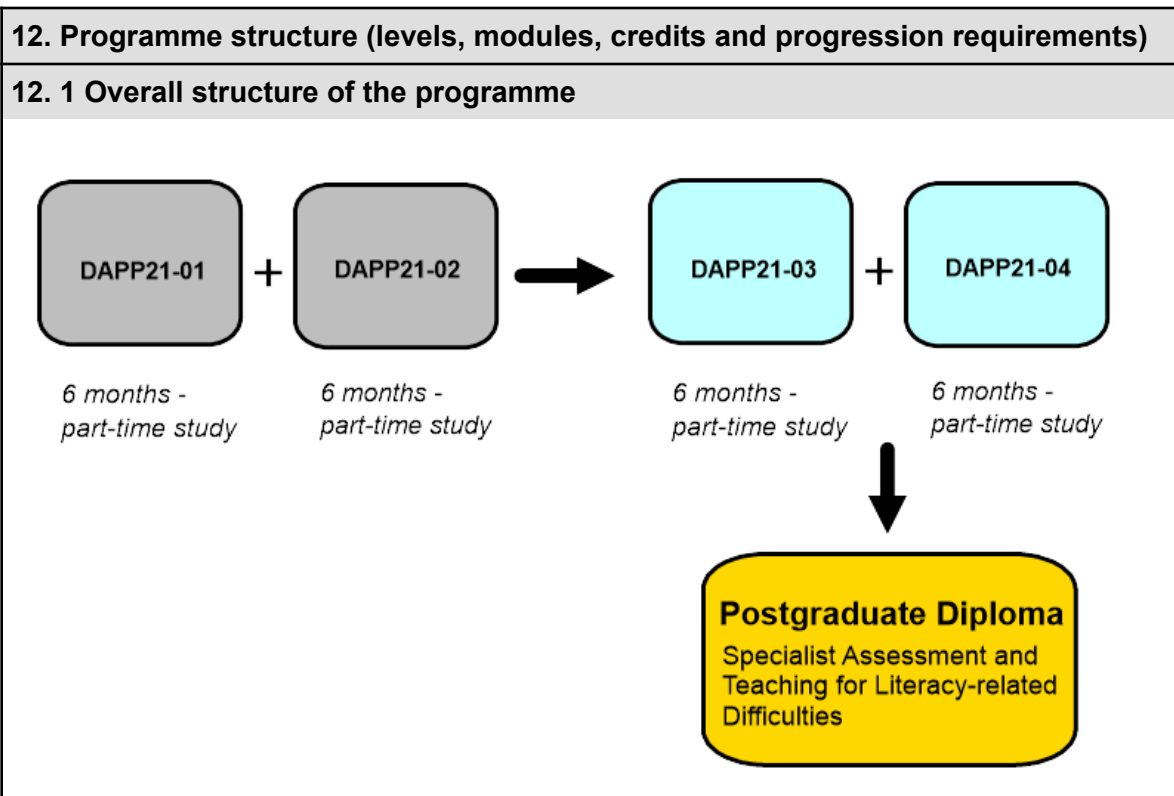

1. Adaptively plan, prepare and deliver a teaching intervention that effectively addresses the individual study requirements of a learner with literacy difficulties using structured, cumulative multisensory methods.

Teaching/learning methods

Students learn skills through:

- self-direction and originality in tackling and solving problems
- acting autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a professional level.
- assigned tasks within their applied educational setting and coaching.

15. Future careers / progression

Future Careers: Completing the PGDip in Specialist Assessment and Teaching for Literacy-related Difficulties is likely to enhance students' suitability for working with school, further education and higher education establishments and in other settings (such as juvenile offender, young offender and adult offender units) in teaching, assessment and advisory roles. Completion of this postgraduate diploma can lead to specialist teacher assessor membership with a relevant professional body (e.g., BDA, Dyslexia Guild, Patoss) and an Assessment Practising Certificate (SASC).

Progression: Successful completion enables students to progress onto the MEd in Professional Practice in Dyslexia and Literacy

16. Particular support for learning (if applicable)

- Support for online learning will be given as this programme is delivered via distance learning.
- Students entering the programme may have a range of recent academic experience, with some continuing students, and some with a gap between their last studies at higher education and/or master's level.
- Advice is available on all the modules to support any student with the study skills they need to undertake the programme including: critical analysis, critical writing and academic referencing.
- Students are also encouraged to think critically about the area of special educational needs relevant to their particular educational setting.
- Technical support for the virtual learning platform and any general technology support issues is provided by the Dyslexia Action/ Real Training IT department. Pastoral support is also provided by the tutor team who ensure each student's needs are treated according to their individual situation.
